

Since the implementation of the "Do Not Call" rule, our family has enjoyed quite dinner and study time. Without the constant intrusion of "telemarketers", we can acutally engage in conversation, exchange stories of the day's events and spend quality time together. With today's demands, school, work, sports, etc, families have little time at the end of the day to have the one-on-one time to simply enjoy each others company. If we allow the "Do not call" rule to be changed or modified, our personal experience is that we will begin to receive on average 2 to 4 calls per evening from "telemarketers". This adds significant stress and interruption to our much needed and deserved "family time". Please do not change Indiana's "Do Not Call" rule. Jennifer and Ralph Albers
